

Whether you are a parent of a teen, or know teens who are gearing up for the road ahead, AAA offers materials to help make the learning-to-drive process a little smoother.

Teaching Your Teens to Drive is designed to help parents and teens work together during the teen's transition from passenger to driver. The carefully designed curriculum progressively builds teen driving skills, such as basic vehicle control, positioning and speed adjustment, freeway and night driving and reducing risk. The Welcoming Your New Driver brochure set features three distinct and informative brochures. One brochure is specifically geared toward parents, while another addresses the teen. Each brochure provides similar information and identifies the many different responsibilities that come along with driving -- and how to manage those responsibilities. The third brochure contains two agreements that the parent may utilize in order to help keep their teen driver safe. These brochures are a great way to gear up for the learning-to-drive process and open the lines of communication with your teen. Contact your local AAA club on AAA.com to receive a copy of the brochure set.

The Choosing a Driving School brochure helps parents select the driving school that's right for their teen. This brochure acts as a guide for parents and identifies some key points and questions parents should consider when selecting a driving school. It includes an evaluation checklist that can be used to rate three different schools on a variety of criteria. Contact your local AAA club on AAA.com and ask for a copy of the Choosing a Driving School brochure.

A complement to Teaching Your Teens to Drive, Driver-ZED immerses your teen in 100 live-action driving situations that require them to think, decide and choose the best course of action for the situation at hand. Your teen will face everything from a child chasing a ball into the street to sharing the road with other drivers on multi-lane highways. They'll learn how to see danger by actually experiencing it on the computer before they get behind the wheel. For more information on Driver-ZED and to order, visit: www.driverzed.org.
